© Please choose ONE of the questions below. We will review your work carefully, so please take a moment to REALLY think about it. You may attach a separate sheet if needed.

Question A.

Please tell us about some of your life events that might have led you to be "pro-international" or "international-friendly". Feel free to describe, draw, or demonstrate it however you want. Think of friends who have made you more globally aware. Maybe you could talk about teachers who taught you worthwhile information about different cultures. How about travels, movies or books that have inspired you to learn about diverse cultures?

Ouestion B.

This question may be for you, if you have experience speaking foreign languages. Remember the time you were navigating freely using your own language, and all of sudden, you traveled abroad and had to do every little task using a "second" language? Tell us how speaking a second language changed the way others interacted with you. Also, tell us how using English as a second language may have impacted your self image since coming to the U.S. (Or, if you have studied abroad, how might speaking a foreign language changed your self-image or identity?).
